

Changes Sought in State Unemployment Insurance

By VINCENT THOMAS
 Assemblyman, 68th District

The end of the brace labor for California's varied and far-flung farms is producing major headaches for growers, food processors, and labor organizations. Its reverberations are adding pressures for major changes in other state laws—unemployment insurance, and housing, to name two important examples.

Bills to include farm labor under the unemployment insurance law have come from two potent sources. The Governor has made such inclusion the major plank in his administration's wide-ranging program of significant changes in the jobless benefits system, which he has announced as being introduced immediately in the Assembly.

A prominent Assembly Republican is also introducing a measure for the same purpose, but his bill has been made dependent upon passage of federal legislation, and differs from the Governor's scheme in basic financial provisions.

IN ADDITION to covering farm labor, the administration program would 1) raise the maximum weekly benefit amount; 2) increase taxes on all covered employers and impose a new tax on farm employers; and 3) plug "some benefit loopholes" about which there has been considerable public criticism. The tax raise would involve upping the wage base by which the taxes are measured from $3,800 to $4,200 per year, raising the rate of the "additional" tax to double the present figure, and replacing the present three schedules of experience rates with two higher schedules.

These proposed changes in unemployment insurance taxes, plus the new tax to be imposed on farmers, would produce $133 million in new revenue annually, up more than 25 per cent over the present level. This sizeable increase would mean inevitable raises in the prices charged consumers for farm products and other goods and services. At present, the system brings in about $520 million per year, which means that it is operating at about a $50 million per year deficit. Cutting into existing reserves is the only thing which keeps the program solvent.

THE ADMINISTRATION proposals would up the maximum weekly benefit amount from the present $55 to $66, thus raising benefit costs some $48.5 million a year. Offsetting changes in qualifying wages, cancellation of rights to benefit for claimants who quit work without good cause, or make willful misstatements of fact to obtain benefits, and enacted which would make up 80 per cent of any deficit caused by inclusion of farm labor, after deduction of a 2.7 per cent tax on farm employers. Under this proposal, California farmers would pay an estimated $24 million a year, the federal government $34.5 million, and the state treasury, $15 million. The bill's principal author criticized the administration program as "ignoring the condition of the fund, and completely disregarding the existing tax burden on California business."

Investment Guidelines Class Set

Guidelines for real estate investors and investment consultants will be examined at the University of California Extension's two-day Real Estate Investment Building program offered the public Friday and Saturday at UCLA and again May 7-8 in Long Beach.

Tax saving techniques including up-to-date income tax information and the buying and selling of properties process are among topics to be explored at the conference.

Apartment building investment will be emphasized, with a common sense approach being used, according to the program's two advisors Theodore Kessler, president of Ashworth-Kessler, Inc., and David Schumacher, a real estate investment counselor and appraiser. Schumacher and Kessler will be present as advisors throughout the conference.

The conference will be in Franz Hall auditorium at UCLA and in the Riviera Room of the Edgewater Inn in Long Beach. Both programs are scheduled from 7 to 9 Friday evening and all day Saturday.

Further program information and reservations may be obtained through University Extension, North High School, 3620B W. 182nd St.

Anti-Smut Bill Killed By Assembly Committee

By CHARLES E. CHAPEL
 Assemblyman, 46th District

On the first Monday of January, 1963, which was the opening day of the regular session of the California State Legislature, I introduced my Assembly Bill No. 3. The bill was presented by me personally before the Assembly Judiciary Committee—Criminal. The significance of the name of this committee is that there are two judiciary committees in the Assembly. One committee of lawyers hear all bills relating to civil actions and civil procedure and is called Assembly Judiciary Committee—Civil. The other committee hears all bills relating to specific crimes and criminal procedure and is the one with which we are concerned in this discussion of the fate of one anti-obscenity bill.

My Assembly Bill No. 3 of 1963 modified the definition of the word "obscene" by amending out of the existing California Penal Code the words "and is matter which is utterly without redeeming social importance." The purpose was to make it possible for district attorneys and city prosecutors to obtain convictions when they prosecute persons in California who publish, circulate, sell, distribute or give away obscene "matter." The word "matter" was defined in my bill as meaning "any book, magazine, newspaper, or other printed or written material, or any picture, drawing, photograph, or any statue or figure, or any recording, transcription or mechanical, chemical or electrical reproduction, or any other articles, equipment, machines or materials."

As you can see from the above definition of obscene matter, my bill was not limited to obscene paperback books and magazines but in filthy French postal cards made famous by world travelers and other junk which clutters up magazine stands and phonograph record shops.

The committee conducted a full-scale hearing which lasted from about 1:30 p.m. to about 6:30 p.m. that night. I made a brief presentation and then introduced in succession witnesses who were leaders of numerous religious organizations, fraternal orders, women's clubs, veterans posts, and a district attorney who had with him the names of the district attorneys of every county in California, each of whom supported my Assembly Bill No. 3 without reservation.

Every district attorney in California also had written a personal letter to me stating that unless my bill was enacted into law he could not get convictions.

Furthermore, there were representatives of many police departments in California who testified in favor of the bill. There was opposition from the Civil American Liberties Union, two ladies who testified they represented all the librarians in California (which I doubted very much), and from one or two individuals who were of uncertain background. The committee killed my bill. It was dead. However, I thought I had the backing of at least 45 members of the Assembly, went on the floor of the Assembly and attempted to gain the 45 votes necessary to withdraw my Assembly Bill No. 3 from the Assembly Committee on Judiciary—Criminal. That failed.

On March 17, 1965, I reintroduced my Assembly Bill No. 3 of 1963, but this year it was designated as Assembly Bill No. 1851 for the simple reason that there were 1,850 Assembly bills previously introduced, including a number of my own bills which I thought had a better chance of passage.

One of the bills previously introduced was Assembly Bill No. 1313 by E. Richard Barnes, who is one of the best loved legislators in California. He is not only a Republican member of the Assembly from San Diego, but he is a retired Captain of the regular United States Navy Corps of Chaplains, active as an ordained minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Captain Barnes also is the only member of the present Assembly Judiciary Committee—Criminal who has not been admitted to practice law in California. In spite of all these qualifications, Assembly Bill No. 1313 by Captain Barnes was killed by a tie vote of his own committee on the morning of Wednesday, April 21, 1965. All ten of the members of the committee were present from 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night until early in the morning of April 21, when the roll was called. Captain Barnes naturally voted for his own bill and he was joined by four lawyers. Five lawyers voted the other way. Since it took six votes to get the bill out of the committee, the bill was killed. I felt very bad about this because Assembly Bill No. 1313 by Captain Barnes was the same as my Assembly Bill No. 3 of 1963 and my Assembly Bill No. 1861 which probably will get killed by the time you read the Press-Herald, I regret to report.

Three new members were elected to the board of trustees of Riviera Community Hospital, 4025 W. 226th St., at the annual membership meeting.

New board members are Dr. James F. Robinson, Dr. J. Ralph Black, and Earl Alderson, all of Torrance.

Future plans for the hospital and its improvement were discussed during the meeting, according to Gene Voorhees, Redondo Beach attorney and hospital president.

Voorhees and Dr. Joseph Sealton were re-elected as trustee members. They will serve three-year terms. Voorhees has been president of the hospital since December, 1962.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible to Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain in Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.
